Javad Alimohammadi Ardakani
Born in 1969 in Ardakan, Yazd, Iran, Javad Alimohammadi Ardakani is a painter, art researcher, and Associate Professor whose practice engages with painting, installation, and the study of art history.
He holds a Ph.D. in Art Research, an M.A. in Painting, and a B.A. in Painting. Over the course of his artistic career, he has developed eight bodies of work encompassing painting and installation, presented through five solo exhibitions and numerous group exhibitions.
His works have also been presented at four editions of the Tehran Auction, as well as at several other prominent art auctions.
Alongside his studio practice, Ardakani’s engagement with art research and art history forms an integral part of his broader artistic perspective, situating his work within an ongoing dialogue between artistic practice, historical consciousness, and contemporary visual culture.

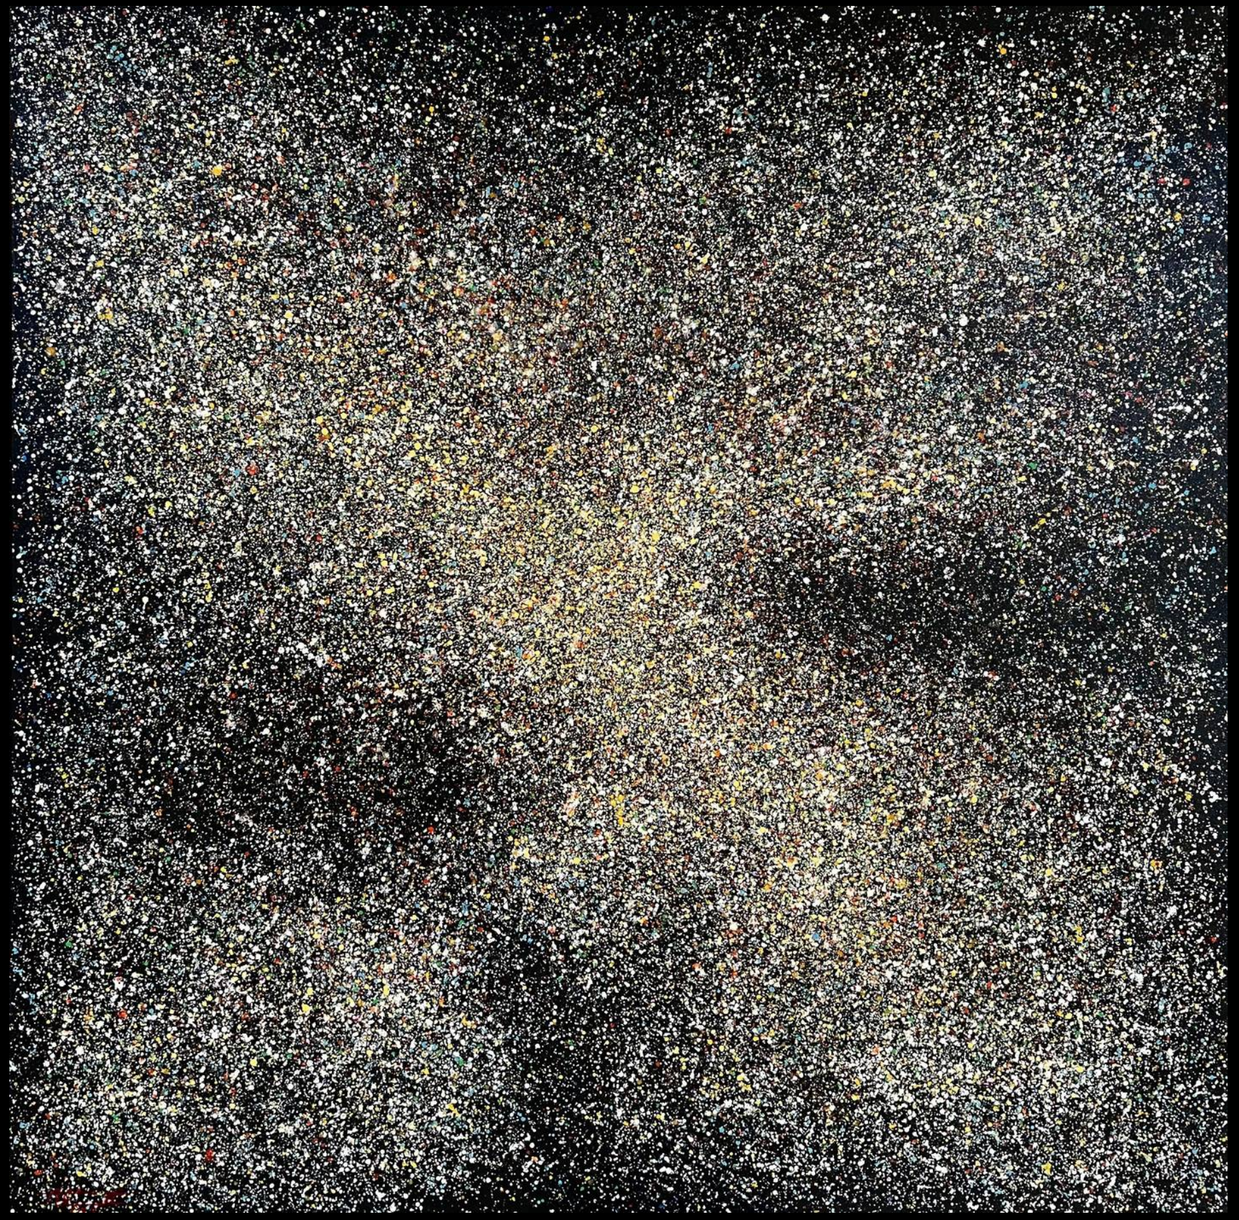

*E*statement

A child in the desert experiences, through the imagination, a sense of wonder mingled with fear at the thought of an immense multitude of luminous bodies falling from the sky. One day, this awe-struck apprehension is transformed into square pictorial frames, while the cosmic unknown—whose magical attraction lies in its capacity to engulf the human imagination within an infinite expanse—is carried beyond beauty toward an experience of the Sublime in the viewer.

The etymological lineage of Universe leads back to Universum—everything in one thing. In Javad Alimohammadi Ardekani's painting series Universe, this idea is rendered through a form that appears abstract at first encounter, yet is, in fact, figurative and governed by a precise internal order.

The palpable presence of the cosmic event within the frame points to the inadequacy of any attempt to conceive the boundless dimensions of the universe. Faced with this immensity, the viewer is left with no alternative but a state of suspension within space-time.
